Prashan Karunaratne has been integral to taking the Macquarie Business School’s knowledge and reputation well beyond the university, with his enthusiastic utilisation of online learning platforms: “I upload my lectures to my YouTube channel Prashan Economics, which has amassed more than 72,000 views and over 440,000 minutes of watch time,” he notes. Prashan is also heavily involved with Macquarie’s Widening Participation Unit – LEAP via LEAP Roadshows and LEAP inROADs. This year, he leads a team of Macquarie Business School L&T champions in partnership with Macquarie’s Widening Participation Unit – LEAP, to launch the National Equity Program for Business Education – to create aspirations in equity students for higher education. This team helped develop HSC Study Labs - HSC Business Studies. These unprecedented times of the post-pandemic world present an even greater urgency to address equity groups regarding their aspirations to higher education.

Prashan is also a part of the team that designs, develops and delivers the University’s award-winning Excel courses on the Coursera platform – reaching more than one million learners globally. He is also the course instructor for these Excel courses which are utilised by international organisations such as the UNDP, UNICEF, and it has also been translated into Arabic by the government of the UAE.

Prashan Karunaratne received a 2019 Australian Award for University Teaching – Outstanding Contributions to Student Learning Award – the Australian government-endorsed, national university teaching awards. The citation was his award was: “For excellence in engaging, equipping and empowering students and lecturers to achieve transformative and equitable outcomes in Economics and Excel – in classrooms, boardrooms and beyond.”

Prashan also received the inaugural Australian Business Deans Council Network Award – Innovation and Excellence in Teaching and Learning in 2020. “The strength of Prashan’s application is that it covers three innovations in the Beginning in a core first year course, Microeconomic Principles, Widening Participation – in Australia and overseas, and the MOOC on Excel Skills for Business, and has numerous impressive awards.”

Prashan has travelled extensively across South Asia running workshops for students and teachers across high schools and universities – equipping students with the importance of economics and empowering teachers with best-practice teaching methodologies.

Since 2020, Prashan has been the Faculty Adviser for Enactus Macquarie, a student society that uses business principles and entrepreneurial action to drive social justice and environmental impact projects in the community. There are Enactus societies in most universities across Australia, and at the annual national championships, where projects are showcased, Enactus Macquarie were the National Champions in 2020.

He has published in The Lighthouse – commenting on the business and economics landscape during the global pandemic. During the pandemic, Prashan’s expert commentary was also sort by the BBC, The Sydney Morning Herald,
Prashan is currently the Course Director for the Bachelor of Commerce as well as the unit convenor of the Bachelor of Commerce Capstone unit – where students in mixed-major teams work towards addressing a United Nations Sustainable Development Goal – collaboratively, sustainably, and profitably - using the knowledge and skills of commerce and their major.

In 2021, Prashan was invited to present his work in the United Kingdom and the European Union to showcase his latest innovations in the teaching and learning of economics and business. Prashan has been invited to contribute 1 of the 20 chapters in the European Union, Erasmus+ project, Shaping a Sustainable Future - Innovative Teaching Practices for Educating Responsible Leaders. This handbook is due to be published in 2022.
